"RED HELEN" WAS MRS. STOKES, SHE SAYS

Mother of Soubrette With Anna Held Tells of Gay Bohemian Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Charging that titian-haired Helen Elwood Stokes, pretty young wife of Wm. Earl Dodge Stokes, 73 year old millionaire turfman, was known in New York's gay bohemia of 1911 to 1917 as "Red Helen," Mrs. Annie Doering, mother of Gladys Dale, one time soubrette with Anna Held, came to the defense of the aged sportsman today in his fight to divorce his wife and obtain custody of their two children.

UNLAWFUL YANK FEE CASE GOES TO JURY

TOLEDO, Oct. 16.—The case of former congressman B. F. Welty, of Lima, who is charged with obtaining an unlawful fee from Franklin R. Strayer, a soldier, for obtaining adjusted compensation from the government for war service, was taken to the jury shortly before noon today.

Welty took the stand in his own behalf this morning. In his testimony Welty admitted he had no agreement between either Franklin Strayer or his guardian as to the amount of compensation he was to receive but claimed he did have an agreement with Franklin's father, William Strayer, in which he was to receive one-third of the amount allowed the father by the Lima common pleas court for care of the boy. The father further agreed, Welty said, to allow him $600 expenses for three trips he made to Washington.

Judge Phil Crow of the circuit court of appeals, Lima, Congressmen Clinton Cole, of Findlay, and F. C. Becker, common pleas judge of Lima, were the closing witnesses for Welty.

PROBE CONDITIONS AT LORAIN JAIL

LORAIN, Oct. 16.—The city council last night voted to probe conditions in the city jail. For some time it has been known that the jail was much too small and that conditions there were unhealthy. Last night city solicitor Wesley Griggs said it was not fit to keep a murderer in, and that a year's sentence would mean the death of the prisoner who received it.

75 FEARED DEAD IN MICH. FOREST FIRE

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 16.—Five men are believed dead today, trapped in the forest fires which have flared again through the upper peninsula.

The men all were employees of the Independence Lumber Company in the big bay district, 25 miles north-west of here, where the fires, fanned by high winds, have assumed menacing proportions.

A group of six lumber men, one of many fire fighting units, had been back firing at a railroad construction camp and were attempting to reach a logging camp for additional equipment. Five of them fell in the path of the advancing fire, said the sixth man, apparently was the only survivor.

This man, according to J. B. Deutsch, manager of the Independence, groped his way back to the railroad camp, found a hand car and escaped over a spur track to Big Bay.

HUNT DOCTOR IN OHIO FARM MURDER

Dispute as to How Bungalow should be Built Leads to Fatal Encounter

DAYTON, O., Oct. 16.—Doctor Hiram Good, former Dayton physician, is being sought today in connection with the murder of John Finck, at a farm which Good owns, near Oran, nine miles west of Sidney.

The shooting occurred yesterday and was witnessed by the physician's wife, who fainted and did not recover consciousness until after three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When she became normal she notified some men working in a gravel pit nearby and they called Sidney authorities.

The body of Finck with three bullets in it, was found about 100 yards from the house. It had been covered with a piece of canvas.

Mrs. Good said her husband had engaged Finck to build a new bungalow on the farm and that a heated dispute arose yesterday morning over how certain work was to be done. Finally there was an encounter and, after having been beaten by the doctor, Finck climbed into his automobile, evidently preparing to leave.

The doctor ran into the house and grabbing a 22 caliber repeating rifle, began firing. How many shots were fired, Mrs. Good does not know. Two bullets entered Finck's chest and a third penetrated the brain above the left eye.

There was no one else at the farm at the time of the shooting and no one knows where Good went not he.

Authorities are to conduct an inquest today.

CHICAGO HANGS OUT WELCOME TO LLOYD GEORGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Chicago forgot to be in a hurry today. The city that seldom has time to spare for anything, stopped what ever else it was doing and roared out a welcome to David Lloyd George with bands, throats, whistles and bells till the echoes hurt its own ears.

When the former English premier stepped from a train at noon, it was as if the three million inhabitants all shouted "how do you do" in one voice.

BULLETINS

"I'll try it again," says Betty Short, eighteen-year-old piano student, New York, referring to the Jungfrau pinnacle in the Alps. Miss Short's first attempt ended when a boulder, dislodged by a small avalanche, struck her on the head, literally scalping her. It tore a strip of scalp and hair from the left side of her head. A rope saved her from plunging over a precipice. She arrived recently in New York.

LIQUOR TOTER NOW FACES PEN

Rudolph Kubasak, 3177 Elyria avenue, Lorain, was arrested yesterday afternoon by prohibition officer Frank Klady, and his squad, after a search of his premises had revealed the presence of seventeen gallons of whiskey.

The forbidden liquor was found in a secret compartment in the cellar that was accidentally stumbled upon. It had been so carefully concealed that only a close investigation revealed it.

This morning Kubasak was arraigned before Judge Webber on a charge of illegal possession, the information stating that it was a third offense. About three weeks ago Kubasak was fined $500 and costs by Judge Webber on the same charge. This morning he pled not guilty and was released under $2,500 bond. His case will be presented to the next grand jury.

DOES VERMILION-TP. MAN HOLD RECORD FOR ORGAN PLAYING? LOOKS LIKE IT

VERMILION, Oct. 16.—Fredrick C. Morgan has been the organist of the Congregational church here 64 years or six years longer than "Uncle Joshua" Allen, of Walpole, Mass., who, because he has been the organist of the First Congregational church of Walpole 58 years, was given more than a page of notice with his picture in a recent issue of a popular magazine.

The fact that Mr. Morgan has been playing the church organ in the one church longer than the Massachusetts organist was brought to the attention of the members of the local Congregational church by L. E. Hahn, a well known farmer living southwest of Vermilion close by Mr. Morgan who is also a farmer.

Hahn happened to come across the magazine article.

"If there's any honor in being the 'oldest organist' we want Mr. Morgan to have it," he said.

Mr. Morgan, besides playing the organ in the church, plays the B-n in the Vermilion G. A. R. band. He has been a member of every band Vermilion has had it more than half a century.

"I've been a musician 76 years old and began playing the Congregational church organ at the age of 12 he says.

"Shortly after I took up organ playing in the church I joined the band," he told Mr. Hahn.

Mr. Morgan says he has played every instrument they have in the Vermilion band with the exception of the reed instruments and the bass drum.

"I've aged organist-bandman is a farmer by occupation. He lives on a farm a mile or so southwest of here."

WOMAN HELD IN QUARREL OVER XMAS GIFT

CANTON, O., Oct. 16.—Clarence W. Bechtel, 25, is dead here today as the result of a quarrel over a rocking chair which he gave Mrs. Anna R. Breckler, 48, as a Christmas gift last year.

CLEVELANDER SENT TO PEN

This morning John Delmasieur, of Cleveland, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary by Judge Thompson. It developed that this young man was one of the three who were arrested here after a thrilling chase from Lorain, by Patrolman Plice, who had tried to stop them for speeding. During the chase many shots were fired, and the young men were captured in a cellar on West River street. Delmasieur admitted that he had served one term in the reformatory for auto stealing.

However, after coming from that institution he entered an architects office in Cleveland, and was highly thought of by his employers. He graduated at East Tech and played on the football team. His mother was a church worker, and his father a good citizen. His employers interested themselves to the extent of getting him an attorney, and promising him his job back after he had served his time. The court was informed that the young man was engaged to be married, that the girl knew of his trouble, and had agreed to wait for him.

Delmasieur had a good word said for him by Assistant Prosecutor Dan Symons, Sheriff Underhill and Attorney H. C. Cheney. The court was also familiar with the case, and advised him when he came out to go back to his job, hold his head up and become a good citizen. His companions, Howard and Clarence Lane were sent to the reformatory on Monday.

TERRIFIC GALE SWEEPS IN AND ON GULF COAST

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 16.—A sixty mile an hour gale swept the gulf coast early today bringing a serious interruption to maritime traffic. The storm is spending itself on shore with the peak passed.

With the exception of demolishing maritime traffic and the destruction of numerous piers by high waters, there has been no serious damage. Gulf shipping, forewarned by the weather bureau, is believed to have escaped serious losses.

The gale, sweeping inland, caused numerous washouts on railroad lines. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad held all trains here because of washouts between this city and New Orleans.

COMMUNISTS COUP IN BERLIN FAILS

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Up to 3:00 o'clock this afternoon the communist attempt to raid Berlin had failed to develop anything more serious than spasmodic clashes with the police in which one man was killed and ten others were wounded.

Police, reinforced by reichswahr, seemed to have the situation completely in hand.

Communists headquarters were a center of activity. Couriers dashed in and out. Reds were rounded up in all parts of the city and placed under "action orders." However, the plans to effect a coup were defeated by spies who kept the government informed of all arrangements.

Five thousand unemployed gathered in front of the Rathaus (city hall) demanding food. When harassed by police, some from younger hot heads formed in the neighborhood to give battle. There were several minor riots when the police tried to scatter them.

An attempt was made to disarm the police. The latter fired a volley and one communist fell dead and several were wounded, three seriously.

MANNHEIM, Germany, Oct. 16.—Two persons were killed at more than twenty wounded in a riot which raged here for twenty-four hours.

The trouble started when plunderers of food shops first looted a store. They were temporarily subdued but fresh plunderers broke out today when police cleared the streets with fixed bayonets.

THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR AND POLITICS

The role of the delegates at the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor committing the Federation to its historic policy of refraining from action as a political party, is undoubtedly wise for this country. As a political organization, labor has not been very effective. Whenever Mr. Gompers has gone into a Congressional district to defeat a candidate who was especially hostile to labor, he has usually come out second best. Many years ago he made a campaign against Congressman Littlefield in Maine, and was badly defeated. He has had other experiences. Labor is much stronger in the economic than it is in the political field.

This does not mean that this will always be the wise course for labor to pursue. If ever the time comes, and it seems to be approaching, when the bloc system becomes as general in American as in European politics, it may be wise for labor to enter the political field. Then a bloc which contains enough members to upset a government in control may easily unite with other blocs and get a very much larger political return than it can hope to get now.

Then, again, in the United States, labor does not constitute so dominating an element in the population as in older countries. At best, it is but a small fraction of the voting population. To set up in every district, or even in districts in which the labor element is most numerous, a labor candidate, the result undoubtedly would be a very pitiful showing. Members of labor unions are not at all as united as they seem. Their first love is not always labor politically. Among laboring men, there are those who are strongly in favor of prohibition, and they would never follow Mr. Gompers in a wet campaign. There are those who by inheritance and tradition are either Republicans or Democrats, and it would take more than a labor issue to swerve them from their political moorings.

As yet, labor in this country has no such following of intellectuals as it has in Europe. It has not welcomed them, and when they have been received it was always with a little suspicion. The continuance of that attitude on the part of labor leaders will make an advent into politics very precarious. The strength of English labor is on such leadership as that of Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden and others of that class. With a wide knowledge of the economic bases of society, they are able to lead in the intricate problems which naturally face labor when it acts in the political field.

The more radical elements in the ranks of labor, in this matter, are theoretical rather than practical. They are undoubtedly much more idealistic in their aims, but they overlook the fact that a straight line is not always the shortest distance between two points. They mean well, but their aims would miscarry much more frequently than they would win.

Whether those who are now in control of the American Federation of Labor have thought it out, or whether it is a matter of instinct or hereditary policy, in either case they have made the wise decision. The miners in Pennsylvania could never have gotten politically what they have gotten by collective bargaining. And the same is true in many other sections of the labor world.

PUBLIC SERVICE SHOULD DOMINATE

We note that Senator Pomerene has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, permission and application to serve a number of railroads as general and district counsel. This is taken as evidence that Senator Pomerene has fully determined to retire from public life. We do not know of any reason necessarily why one who is an attorney for the railroads should not be permitted to enter and even continue in public life. There is no such reason, inherently, in the theory of the matter. But the difficulty must lie in the fact that the public service is made subservient to his legal service.

The truth is that in the case of Senator Pomerene, the peculiar slant that he took upon the railroad situation probably eliminated him from the United States Senate. It was felt by the employees of the railroads that Senator Pomerene was more friendly toward the railroads than he was to what they considered the public service. It is not surprising that Senator Pomerene should become the avowed attorney for them. But there should be an emphasis placed upon the obligations in the legal profession as in every other profession that the first duty lies for the public good, and that services should not be sold to be used on behalf of private enterprises, that would interfere with the good of all.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAY'S NEWS

ROBERT S. LOVETT
After almost forty years in the railroad service, Robert S. Lovett resigned recently as chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad system. He gave as his reason his desire to lessen his responsibilities to safeguard his health.

Lovett, one of the highest paid railway executives in the country, at the time of his resignation, was born in San Jacinto, Texas, June 22, 1860.

After attending the high school at Houston he spent years in self-study and self-mastery while reading the law and was admitted to the bar with a fine equipment of varied knowledge and a clear grasp of detail.

As counsel for the Southern Pacific and other roads he came in touch with the Harriman interests in that capacity. When the government took over the railroads during the war Lovett was made director of additions and betterments under the administration.

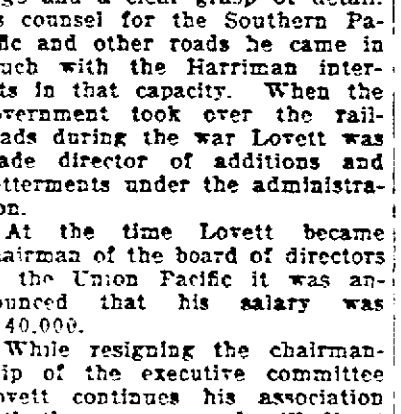

At the time Lovett became chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific it was announced that his salary was $140,000.

While resigning the chairmanship of the executive committee Lovett continues his association with the company and will direct the representation of the Union Pacific's interests in consolidation matters and in the valuation of railroad properties upon which the interstate commerce commission is now engaged and to which he has already given much attention.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"EUROPE RAPIDLY TAKING SHIP" IS VIEW OF J. OGDEN ARMOUR

Europe is rapidly taking ship, according to J. Ogdén Armour, Chicago banker, just back from a study of European conditions.

"Better feeling between England and France, splendid crops on the continent, rapid strides toward the settlement of the Ruhr problem, and a general improvement in the unemployment situation in England, according to Mr. Armour, are among the things on which he bases his optimistic outlook.

"I saw nothing to convince me that Europe was on the road to ruin," he declared. "On the other hand, I saw well cultivated fields and industrious, if not prosperous, people. True, in Germany it is reported that there is suffering. Doubtless there is. I did not visit Germany, but I know that conditions will greatly improve with the settlement of the Ruhr question, and that settlement apparently is in sight.

"Financially Europe is improving rapidly. There is a surprising amount of money for necessities. I don't want to appear too optimistic, but I can't agree with the pessimists who see nothing but ruin ahead for Europe.

"Of course Europe needs more money, but it isn't likely that any big locus will be granted until the Ruhr problem is definitely settled. After that, I am confident American loans will be arranged.

"Then there are the alarmists. I differ with them, too. Militaristic reports that France is eager for another war are nothing but pure bunk. France doesn't want another war. Nobody in Europe wants another war. They are sick of fighting and will be for years. France has her army, but it is for protection rather than any militaristic purpose.

"Mr. Baldwin's visit to Premier Poincaré did a great deal to heal the differences between France and England. That personal contact accomplished more than a dozen notes would have.

"While my outlook toward European conditions is optimistic, I wish to make it plain that in my opinion there are still many obstacles to be overcome. I do not say that Europe has recovered. I merely say that she has reached the turning point toward recovery, and that complete recovery is only a matter of time. It is foolish to say that 'All of Europe is going to the dogs.'"

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dangerous Crossings.
While our hearts go out in sympathy to the folks of Rootstown, let us think of our own children. There are a number of children on Lake avenue who have not attended school this year because their parents refuse to let them ride in the school bus. Can anyone blame the parents when they know that the school bus crosses four railroad crossings? Now while the North Ridge road is being repaired they cross three. On the way to school there is a hedge so high that it obstructs the view of the yellow line cars (on the Griswold road). Going back to Lake avenue the store on the corner obstructs the view of the green line cars. When there are twenty-five to thirty-five children in a bus, a driver cannot depend on his sense of hearing but he must be able to see clearly.

In June we were shocked when reading about the school children who lost their lives when a lamp exploded in Cleveland, South Carolina. In the Maryland school where these children attend they have both gasoline and coal oil lamps. There is no reason why they couldn't be discarded before there is an accident. I would hold each and every member of the school board responsible for any accident that might happen because they refuse to install electric lights and they cannot give a reasonable excuse for refusing. We read so much about people being shocked into numbness, let every mother in Elyria township be shocked into activity. It will be lots better for the children.

Give a man a horse he can ride.
Give a man a boat he can sail.
And his rank and wealth, his strength and health,
On sea nor shore can fall.

Give a man a pipe he can smoke.
Give a man a book he can read.
And his home is bright with a calm delight.
Though the room be poor indeed

Give a man a girl he can love,

COOLIDGE MAY SHIFT DRY LAW HEAD

ern part of the state has been cut off from railroad transportation. Airplanes were being arranged for better bureau observers to go to these flood districts.

Rain For 5 Days

A murky, misty sky greeted the city today. Five days of almost steady downpour chilled women and children as they huddled together in downtown public places.

Heavily burdened men, women and children trudged in endless procession seeking places of rest and security after daybreak today.

From daybreak on thousands of automobiles skirted the flooded district, picking up refugees and carrying them to the scores of havens speedily provided.

Bungalows and cottages, never before menaced by water, were almost submerged.

There had been no loss of life reported early today.

Two thirds of city were housing the other third today while the waters of the North Canadian river, on the worst rampage in history, had killed the lowland sections and swirled houses and property before it.

The city reservoir gave way, adding danger even to the business section of the city.

Bread and coffee lines were established at the Hickins hotel and other downtown places and all clubs, churches and organizations threw their doors open to the refugees flocking in from the low sections.

The crest of the flood wave, never before more than 17 feet, was soaring at 25 feet at the dam with a prospect of even higher during the day.

Pandemonium broke loose shortly after midnight when sirens began blowing as a pre-arranged signal warning that the reservoir had broken. Fifteen thousand residents rushed to high ground.

Steel earth, stone—nothing could withstand the crush of the waters. The huge reservoir dam gave away, behind which billions of barrels of water rushed onward to the Santa Fe railroad fill, thru the southern part of the city, backing the water up into the lower districts.

It is feared that if the entire dam goes out much more territory will be inundated.

WEALTHY CHEMIST MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT IN FIANCEE'S HOME

Mystery, dark and impenetrable, surrounds the shooting of Milton A. Maas, vice president of a New York chemical company, on the porch of the home of Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, wealthy widow, on Ledge Road, Sound Beach, Conn. Mrs. Leslie has told police that he was shot by three strange men whom she found hiding behind a hedge near the porch. She says one of the men made finger marks visible on her throat. Police believe, however, that jealousy may have prompted the shooting. The finding of a couple containing a woman's photo, near the scene, bears out the theory.

The first number on the lecture course comes October 25, the Mindora Filipino Quartette. There is no more colorful melodious and voluptuous music than that of the Philippines, which has developed through the course of long centuries in the island of long centuries.

Its strains haunt the memory long after the quaint instruments and rich voices that evoked them have become silent. The Mindora Quartette is a group of young Filipinos whose interpretations of these weird but lovely melodies are above the average of the many who have come to this country in recent years to sing to us. Talented and industrious students of Filipino instrumental music and folk songs, played and sung from time immemorial on the field of battle, the hunt, and on moonlit nights beside the silver streams that skirt the peaceful villages, the members of this quartette are never more at home, or happier, than when they may communicate to sympathetic American audiences the charm and thrill of primitive Filipino music.

With this they combine our favorite popular melodies, popular songs, and compositions, giving to them a different interpretation through their artistry than we are accustomed to hear.

ORDERS PAPER BOXES REMOVED FROM STREETS

The new metal rubbish and waste paper boxes on the city streets will probably be removed, as a result of the city council's action on them by Mr. Cook, who had placed them on the street, after consulting with the members of the council and the city director. Members of the council all agreed that the boxes were a good thing and that they should keep the city clean. However, there was an ordinance that prohibited placing advertising on streets, sidewalks, and telegraph poles, and they did not feel like repealing that ordinance. Cook had circulated a petition allowing the boxes on the street and all the councilmen in the service director had signed. Acting on the supposition that anything was all right, Cook had ordered the boxes made at a cost of $24.50 each for twenty-three boxes, expecting to get his money back by using the sides of the boxes for advertising purposes. A councilman acknowledged they made a mistake in signing the ordinance, not knowing that the ordinance prohibited such advertising. The city would have bought the boxes if the money could be used to do so. Mr. Cook said he had similar boxes in other towns, and he was advised to remove those here to some other place.

Council Refuses To Give Halpin Use of City Lot

The city council met last evening, and in one way broke a record. There was not an argument of place, and the council passed off as quiet as a mill pond on a warm summer day. No business of importance except routine passing of ordinances took place and the session was a short one.

The high committee was ordered to investigate the requests for street lights on Turner street, South Logan, Bellefield avenue, Lorain Boulevard, Grace avenue and Phillips court.

A petition for a six-inch water main on Blake street was referred to the water committee.

Residents of south Prospect street entered a protest against water standing on the street, and a committee will investigate it.

The request of John Halpin that a small portion of East Broad street be joined to the bridge by a viaduct so that he could build a flush with the East Broad street bridge was turned down.

The council adjourned until next Monday night. At that time they will endeavor to settle a controversy between the city, the Parcel Lumber Co., and the New York Central Ry., regarding a change in the grade at the Mill street crossing.

When a nation suffers from the loss of 14,000 of its inhabitants from any one cause, it is time to pause and try to remedy the condition that is causing such an appalling loss of life.

Last year there were slightly more than that number of deaths from automobile injuries and incidents are that the list will reach 15,000 in 1923. There were other thousands more or less seriously injured. Some of these latter were permanently disabled and in this way also the nation's man-power is impaired.

The Interstate Commerce Commission reported that in the first three months of this year 421 persons were killed and 1,383 injured at highway crossings, where machines ran into trains, or were struck by trains in this country. This stupendous death list of nearly 15,000 could be wiped out almost entirely if care and caution were practiced not only by the motorists but also by the pedestrians. Both have a duty to perform. The automobile is an economic necessity and is as much a safe vehicle in the hands of a competent and careful operator as is a street car, or a horse and carriage.

With the prevailing low prices for automobiles and the growing use of them on our streets, it is the duty of citizens to prepare to use care and precaution at every turn. In view of this, there will be shown in this city Oct. 16, 17, and 18, safety motion pictures which have been lent to this municipality by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

For many years this railroad has been teaching safety habits to its employees, and the president of this company, Mr. Daniel Willard, broadened the scope when he dered that while his first concern was for the safe operation of the railroad, he was mindful of the fact that those who live along or adjacent to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were its neighbors and should be helped.

The motion pictures deal with accident prevention at highway crossings, on the streets, in the home and the school. There are two reels, and the title of the picture is "The Price of Carelessness." Through means of visualization, the safety lesson is driven home. There are thrilling accidents pictured, and then the right way and the safe way are shown.

Two representatives of the railroad accompany the pictures. William F. Braden, Safety Representative, will deliver talks on safety while here, and the motion pictures will be handled by Arthur D. Gans. They will bring some safety literature with them and distribute it to all who care to take it. Reading what is given the people here and following the simple rules set forth will mean a big reduction in accidents, possibly the elimination entirely of casualties from automobiles, street cars and railroad trains.

There is no charge of admission or any cost whatever attached to the showing of the motion pictures in this city.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturers. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicine preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as it is an endless chain system, the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years. I never hesitate to recommend it for almost every case I show excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale." According to sworn statements and verified by thousands of others who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it is a remedy that it fulfills almost every claim in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by filling out the coupon and enclosing ten cents, also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

GOOD PROGRAM ENJOYED AT MUSICAL ART SOCIETY MEET

The annual reception of the Musical Art Society was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Stevens, Jr., on East avenue.

The president of the society, Miss Anna Monroe, presided over the short business session which consisted of announcements for the coming year. Miss Monroe called upon Mr. Ferdinand Anderson to tell of the condition relative to the concert which the society is providing for music loving Elyrians.

An exceptionally fine program had been arranged for the afternoon. Mrs. Arthur Hudnutt, a late addition to the active talent of the society, sang two lovely songs, "A Song of Waiting," by Wright, and "Love in Spring," by Barrowski, which were received with great pleasure by the audience and an encore, "Flirtation," by Curran, all three of the selections suiting the clear, vibrant quality of her voice. Mrs. Hudnutt was accompanied by Miss Lucille Hinman.

Miss Sybil Adams and Eugene Adams, of Lorain, contributed some very beautiful selections to the program. Mr. Adams played the following violin numbers, accompanied by his sister, Miss Sybil: "Liebesfreud," by Kreisler; "Drama," by Bartlett; "From the Canabake," by Gardner; "Caprice Viennoise," by Kreisler; and "Ave Maria," by Schubert, also an encore "Oriente," by Caspar Cui. A warm and accurate of tone marked Mr. Adams' playing.

Miss Adams' numbers, "Dance of the Nymphs," by Lutz, "Erde in C sharp minor," by Chopin, and "Polonaise in A Flat," by Chopin, were ably executed showing a mastery of technique as well as expression.

The regular Monday afternoon recitals will begin Monday, November 19th, at the Congregational church with Mrs. J. B. Thomas as leader.

DAVIS will make this test!

The only purpose in using baking powder is to leaven food. Proper leavening depends on the strength of the baking powder. You can test the raising strength of Davis this way:

- 1 Place a heaping teaspoonful of Davis Baking Powder in a glass.
- 2 Add three teaspoonsful of cold water, stir quickly and remove spoon.
- 3 Allow to stand two minutes and watch results, showing raising strength.
- 4 Turn glass upside down—if test is made correctly, contents will not fall out.

This is only a test. When using baking powder, always sift together flour, baking powder and salt, mixing thoroughly, always dry—in the usual way.

This simple test will prove to you the superior raising strength of Davis Baking Powder, and that you may use it with full confidence that your bakings will always come out right.

“I buy good power company stocks in preference to all others”

Roger W. Babson

Roger W. Babson of Wellesley, Mass., U. S. A., is America's greatest financial statistician. The Babson Statistical Organization, Inc., which he conducts is the last word in financial advice. Over his own signature, Mr. Babson strongly recommends the buying of the stock of your home power company. In substance Mr. Babson said:

THE fields farthest away look the greenest. People send their money to Czecho-Slovakia when there are better purchases in their home towns. The security of local investments is usually greater—the opportunity for profit usually fully as good.

“Of the wealthy men in your community, the ones who have made money are not those who have sent it to distant states or countries, but those who have invested in their own country—in their own home town.

“Here Are Three Rules of Investing:

1. Study fundamental conditions.
2. Put character before collateral.
3. Have faith in your community.

“The classes of local securities that offer the best opportunity are different at different times. At present electric power and light securities are best for local purchase.”

Mr. Babson then summed up his reasons for believing that power company securities were better than manufacturing, railroads, natural gas companies, water companies, and merchandising organizations, and concluded by saying: “This leaves the electric power and light companies at the moment as the most attractive for local investment.” Mr. Babson then gave seven reasons for believing that investments in local power and light companies are best:

Reason 1

“Every corporation depends to a large extent upon management; but of all groups, I know of none where the personal equation is of less importance than in the case of power and light companies. Any man who is honest and desirous of serving the community can operate such a company successfully. He need not be either a financial or an electrical wizard. A power and light company which has a territory to itself and is giving good service usually will grow regardless of its management.

Reason 2

“Electric power and light companies have a relatively small labor charge. The percentage of the gross receipts which goes to labor is smaller than in almost any other industry, and this especially applies to water power electrical developments.

Reason 3

“At the present time rates are satisfactory in 90% of the communities. Many increases have been made during the past few years and, where the service is metered, these rates are fully satisfactory.

Reason 4

“Unlike a telephone company, the cost per unit decreases as the load and business increase; that is to say, the more business a power and light company does, the cheaper it can manufacture its product.

Reason 5

“The electric power and light business is a very steady business and fluctuates less with business conditions than most other industries. It is true that less power is consumed during a depression than during a period of prosperity; but the change is comparatively little. Increased business in lighting absorbs most of the loss in power, and increased consumption by new customers will offset any loss in old customers.

Reason 6

“Electricity is just beginning to be used in the home for purposes other than lighting. Inventions are being worked out which will greatly increase the use of electric power in connection with cooking, heating and other uses.

Reason 7

“The electric power and light companies are facing a period when their supplies should be cheaper than they have been in the past few years. Money rates also are on the decline, which is favorable to most companies.”

There's a Letter in the Mail for You

If the securities of local power and light companies are an ideal investment for one of the world's greatest financial experts, are they not good enough for all thoughtful investors? An opportunity to obtain a partnership in your home power and light company will be given to the customers of the company in an offer that will be mailed to them October 18th.

We believe you will find this offer of interest.

If you are a customer of The Ohio Public Service Company, and if you would like to share in ownership and earnings of that company, ask any employee to call on you on or after October 20th. Your request for information will incur no obligation whatever.

In conclusion Mr. Babson said that he was not speaking of any particular company, but was making an effort to interest people in their local company whatever it is and wherever it is. “If you are looking for yield,” he said, “buy the preferred stock, especially if it is cumulative. . . . I am not writing as a theorist, but as one who has had twenty years' experience with all classes of local securities. I personally buy these in preference to all others.”

YANK'S WINNING TITLE TAKES BIG LOAD OFF McGRAW'S HAT RACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When the Yankees won the world's championship yesterday they took a big load off of McGraw's hat rack. He no longer has to worry who's going to pitch for him this afternoon. The Giants had the game sewed up for them in the eighth inning when the Yankees began taking the stitches out of it. When McGraw saw a black cat walking along center field fence in the last of the seventh, he figured it meant bad luck for the Yankees. He didn't know Miller Huggins had bought the cat. The attendance at the Polo grounds was very poor. All the Giant fans were in church praying for rain. But when the sun started to come out McGraw knew they weren't keeping their mind on their work. Nehf did some great pitching until the last of the eighth when he began to rattle like a second hand Ford in an earthquake. It wasn't long before all three bases were full and Huggins had to put a sign out "no vacancies." However, the Giant pitchers were walking so many batters that the Yankee players had to wait in line at first base. By this time McGraw had sent a deputy sheriff out to arrest Nehf and bring him back to the dugout. The bases were still as crowded as whales in a sardine can when Babe Ruth stepped up to the plate to face Ryan with a branch of the family tree in his hand. Every time Babe rolled stock he missed it so far that the crowd wouldn't have been in any danger at all if the pitcher had been using dynamite instead of baseballs. McGraw then sent a signal out to Ryan by a special messenger. No body knows what was in the message but it must have been a death threat because Babe immediately struck out. There still was a man on each of the chase longways when Bob Meusel very dely turned he back to the catcher and drove a single to center field. The Yankees then began coming home quicker than a prodigal son with the mortgage money. They were so excited they walked right in without knocking. McGraw by this time was watching the game under a physicians' care. After Pipp had been put out at first, the Giants came to bat again. McGraw asked Judge Landis for special permission to put in the ball green so that the Yankee fielders couldn't see it. Jones didn't have enough "english for Irish" and Meusel got to first. Both Bob and Emil did their share toward bating There's nothing like keeping the hits in the family. But when Stengel, the Babe Ruth of the Giants, stepped up to the plate he didn't waste any of the Yankee's time. He was out like a boarder who's behind in his rent. The Yanks then came up again but something happened to the mechanism of the scoreboard and they didn't make any more runs. The Giants had another opportunity to hang the pennant up in their dugout, but they were about as successful as a one armed man swimming across the English Channel with a handful of jelly. And as Ethel Barrymore would have said, "That's all there is, there isn't any Giants." And the master mind changed hands.

RUTH ESTABLISHES TWO WORLD RECORDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Babe Ruth's third home run yesterday was not the only record he established during the 1923 world's series, according to statistics compiled today. Ruth's hit gave him the honor of being the first player to smash out three homers in a single series. It also gave him a total of four for his world series career, against the former record held by Pac Dougherty of the Red Sox in 1903 and equalled by six other players. In addition Ruth's two homers of Thursday last allowed him to equal the single game record, held jointly by Dougherty, Harry Hooper and B. K. Kauf. Still another mark fell to the Yankee sledge gun in the matter of total bases, Ruth's total of nineteen, establishing a new record. The old record of 18 was the joint property of Dougherty, Buck Herzog and Joe Jackson.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS When the world congress of Congregationalists which meets today at Springfield, Mass., takes up the question of continuing the missionary work of the church in Turkey under the difficult conditions following the World War, a report will be presented by James L. Barton strongly urging such continuance. Dr. Barton is secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which is the organ of the foreign work of the Congregational churches. He is a Vermont native, was educated at Middlebury College and at Hartford Theological Seminary, and went to Turkey in 1885 as a missionary stationed at Harpoot. In the course of time he became professor in the missionary college, and later its president. He has written many books on educational and missionary problems; has shared in several important deputations to Japan, China, India and Ceylon, and on various occasions has served as a trusted adviser to the Government on conditions in the Near East. Riding Still Style Of Many at Oberlin College

OBERLIN, Oct. 16.—"Step on the gas" is not a part of the vocabulary of the students at Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio. Instead, you're likely to hear them say "Hop on your bike and let's take a spin." For the "joy-riding" problem, now troubling so many college authorities, doesn't exist at Oberlin. The bicycle, ancient and honored means of transportation almost extinct at American colleges since the advent of the high-powered car, has always been in vogue at Oberlin and now is more popular than ever. One dealer in the town has 400 bicycles for rent. Most of the automobiles, virtually unknown at this famous old Middle Western institution, which always has taken a stand on the side of simplicity, and a flashy motor car drawn up in front of a college building is a cause for comment. Instead of automobiles, one sees rows of bicycles parked in front of various recitation buildings in specially built racks. Bobbed-haired girls, sweated boys and spectacled college professors cycle briskly along the walks, their books carried in wire baskets fastened to their handle-bars. A visitor to the college immediately remarks the number of figures flying over the campus on the old reliable two-wheeled vehicles. A certain professor and his wife, both of whom are members of the faculty, always ride to the campus together every morning on their "bikes." The authorities at Oberlin believe that bicycle riding has a good psychological effect. You can't "step on the accelerator" on a bicycle and moderation in rate of rate of transportation, they feel, has a tendency to make for moderation in mode of living and thought in this age of speed. Postoffices were first established in 1464. A day in the planet Eros is five and one-half hours. Ten-elevenths of the world's population are north of the equator.

WHAT THEY SAY

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees: "We won because we had the better pitchers and hitters. but we had to beat a great club." John McGraw, manager of the Giants: "I have no alibi. The better team won. All honor to it." Bob Meusel, whose hit won the game: "I got the thrill of my life when I saw the ball going into center field." Babe Ruth, who fanned with the bases filled: "It was awful, that strike out. I never felt worse about anything. However I'm tickled to death that Bob Meusel got the honor of winning the series. He deserves it." Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees: "I congratulate the Yankees on their skill and pluck in winning an uphill fight, and I congratulate the Giants on their good sportsmanship and clean playing." Art Nehf, Giant pitcher, whose collapse lost the game: "The arm went fine for seven innings. It couldn't go any further."

DAY'S PHOTOGRAPH STUDIO IS ROBBED

Day's photograph studio was robbed Saturday noon while the proprietor and his wife went out to dinner. Unfortunately the case was left unlocked and $78 in cash was stolen from a drawer in the safe that was locked. The thief knew where the key was hid in a desk, and also must have known the habits of Mr. and Mrs. Day in going to dinner at that hour. Mr. Day, the "friend" of the "mitten" burglar. So hastily did he work that he never looked in the cash register which contained several dollars, and did not look in Mrs. Day's pocket book that was a plain sight on a table.

New Publishing Concern Formed

Papers were drawn up today for the incorporation of a new Lorain-Elyria business enterprise to be known as The Great American Publishing company, with offices in the Houscher building, Lorain. Within the next few weeks it is intended to open an office in Elyria also. George L. Lank, well-known Lorain real estate dealer, is president of the new concern, H. W. Metzger is vice president, and George F. Gibert, secretary. The latter two are former Lorain newspapermen. The Great American company is publishing a new cook book, and in addition will conduct a general advertising agency, paying particular attention to the designing and compiling of catalogs and the writing of advertisements, sales letters, pamphlets, etc. Expert talent has been secured by the new company.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other troubles of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis, and other forms of throat and lung diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if Creomulsion cures no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Picture of Mrs. Dellora Angell Norris; insert, her artist husband, Lester Norris.

For six happy months Mrs. Dellora Angell Norris, of Chicago, heiress to the Gates millions, and her artist husband, Lester Norris, son of an undertaker, lived in their cottage on Main street, St. Charles. Now they have moved into a palace in the most pretentious section of town. Dellora has not changed but her friends persisted that the sumptuous mansion was much more fitting the heiress of millions than the simple cottage on Main St. And Norris didn't mind the change.
